

Graduating Class of '76

The results of the Grad Poll showed that the majority of students (those that filled out a sheet) wanted to have a graduation dance downtown with a buffet as a type of meal. Approximately 2/3 of the students responded to the poll.

After having tried to book several hotels downtown, and being refused because already taken, our final decision is the CONSTELLATION HOTEL, corner of Sherbrooke and Peel St. This has already been confirmed.

No decisions have yet been made as to which band will be playing; we're still open for suggestions.

The cost of the evening will be maximum $40 for the meal and dance afterwards (this includes the cost of the band). However, if everyone is as enthusiastic about organizing fund-raising events as they said they were, and the events are carried out successfully, then we hope to lower the cost of the Grad accordingly!

So, help your Grad by participating in the organization of some event. Your interest and diligence is money made . . .

New Course to be given at MAC

A new course - "COMPARATIVE AGRICULTURE" - A STUDY OF INTERNATIONAL AGRICULTURE - will be offered by the Faculty of Agriculture in the Winter term on the Macdonald Campus.

Course time is Tuesday evenings, 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. for twelve weeks beginning January 13, 1976.

Course objectives are:

a) To expose students, some of whom may be going on CUSO or other foreign assignments, to the nature of agriculture in tropical and in developing countries.

b) To provide the background for understanding international agriculture and world food supply problems.

The lectures will cover the following topics:-

1. The physical resource base of climate, soils and water
2. The crop resource base
3. The animal resource base
4. The social resource base of people, and the infrastructure for food production
5. Problems of land tenure, internal marketing, and extension
6. External marketing and international agreements for food crops
7. Technology transfer and international aid programs
8. Sugar as an example of an agricultural production system

9. Cassava as an example of an agricultural production system
10. Animal production systems
11. Two case studies in rural development
12. Perspective on world food production

The course is organized by Professors Donefer, Stepler, van Lierop and Warkentin with assistance from other members of

A Short Poem

Wake to the whisper of sun fingers tapping lightly on your pillow
got to get up to save this day!
Pink meringue sky catches your eye you stand naked afore it.
Wanderin', wondering.
Cool green grass, got their tips
pitched down,
dew rollin' to the ground
still wonderin', wandering.
Gazing up, swift winging ducks
pierce the blue, racing,
Yes racing cause they got a meeting on the cape or maybe palm beach.
With a little shiver, back to your bed throw a jersey on - you know pomegranate season's gone. Perseph's already left for the shades - all the leaves

Students will be expected to attend lectures and participate in discussions. Evaluation will be based on written critiques of some of the lectures. Questions which can form the basis of the critiques will be available for each lecture.

And gone. Somebody took 'em all or did you think they all blew away?
Well, we're here to stay the winter together so you won't be cold n' I won't fright at the first cast of snow dancing. We'll have tea
- warm you and me and anyone else that's brave enough

So poke up a smile - tune in a grin to keep yourself happy.
An' if while the cold rolls

Bountiful Breads

Well, the Christmas season of give and take is rearing its ugly head again, and what is there around here for gifts? May I make a suggestion? Give something from the kitchen, that warm hub of good smells and good eating. You may have guessed by now that I have a recipe up my sleeve, and rightly so, for I do. This recipe makes 8 beautiful fruit cakes. You can buy the loaf pans in the supermarket, just the regular aluminum foil ones which are the right size, or you won't make 8 cakes. Here are the ingredients. Costs $10 in all (including wine).

2 cups soft butter
3 1/2 cups sugar
9 egg whites
9 egg yolks
6 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 tsp. cloves (ground)
2 cups Marsala wine
2 cups applesauce
2 lbs. raisins (& currants)
1 lb. mixed, cut-up candied fruit
2 cups chopped walnuts
cherries are optional

Get some heavy brown paper (a shopping bag is good) without any writing or ink on it and grease it well and line the loaf pans with it. Pre-heat the oven to 300 degrees F.

Cream the butter until fluffy. Beat in the sugar gradually and beat well after every addition. Beat in the egg yolks, one at a time.

Sift the flour, baking powder, salt, nutmeg and cloves together. Measure out 1/2 cup of this mixture and set it aside. Now add the rest of the flour mixture alternately with the Marsala, to the batter mixture. Then stir in the applesauce.

Combine in another bowl the raisins, currants, candied fruit, and walnuts in a bowl. Add the 1/2 cup of flour mixture and toss together with your hands until the fruit is well coated with flour. Now stir it into the batter.

Beat the egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold them into the batter.

Now it's ready to cool. Divide the batter evenly (about 3 cups per loaf) and bake them 2 hours, or until the old toothpick test works. Cool them in the pans. Turn them out when cool, strip off the brown paper and wrap in heavy-duty aluminum foil to store until needed; then you can wrap them in transparent wrap, tie a ribbon around and give them away (what a waste of good cake). If your oven won't hold 8 loaves at once, refrigerate the ones not being cooked. The Marsala wine

Editorial

I have made the world's most redundant discovery!

The most precious article in the world is also the most irreplaceable and ephemeral of them all. It is shared by all, be they living or non-living, significant, insignificant, large or miniscule. It is available to each and every one in the exact identical amounts, and on the same level or plane. It is the sort of thing that you don't realize you have lost until it begins to run out on you. It is simply "time".

If someone wanted to become famous, I would suggest they find a way to harness time and its forces. If someone wanted to give another a gift of infinite worth, it would have to be that of time. Every second spent is unique - and gone forever. Duplications, and 'instant replays' are but a fantasy, with the only remainder being a memory.

There are various ways of 'spending' your time, (and that of others as well) each of which has its own significance. However, I wonder if we realize how little actual use we do make of this potential. Take a few seconds and think about what you may have done today; now compare this to the things you had planned to do today. The disparity is obvious. The solution - ? Perhaps you accomplished what you set out to do, perhaps more, perhaps less; as the case may be, the argument stands that it is the personal satisfaction of the way your time was utilized with respect to your goals that determines whether or not the time was used to its greatest potential.

We should all give this unique substance its due respect and appreciation. Perhaps, in doing so, we shall discover the elusive key to the 'universe'.

Editor:

A major preoccupation of many students on campus this fall has been the Bar-Disco. The bar was opened in Sept. '70 as a student function to provide a place for students to socialize and have a few drinks without having to go off campus. This would cut down on the inevitable problems and damage in Ste. Anne, Dorion or wherever, as well as the drunken drive home. As a secondary function the bar provides employment for many students to supplement their income and pay some of the bills of the Centennial Centre.

Students do not get rich working at the bar, but I believe wages are comparable with similar types of jobs in restaurants and bars (tips, of course, vary from place to place). Staff privileges also vary from place to place as well as the type of work.

Staff used to have special entrance privileges allowing them to enter the bar, accompanied by a guest without waiting in line, signing in or surrendering their card. Now they have to go through regular entrance policy as does every other student.

Herein lies the major gripe of most of the bar employees. They would like to see the old entrance policy returned. Students Council took this privilege away since it was felt that the staff was relatively well remunerated by salary and privileges, and also since no special privileges are granted to other student functions or activities at Macdonald. Whether it was Fall Royal Chairman or Students Council President, they all waited in line and payed their admission for Royal events or whatever was scheduled.

Oh yes, you say, there are special privileges on campus, certain members of student organizations even have offices, desks and soft chairs to sit in. Yes, and I am one of those privileged few who can be found 15 hours or more a week resting my fat ass in that cozy chair and wondering how best to coordinate or organize anything from a Student Counselling Service to Winter Carnival to trying to exert influence to obtain both facilities for a Mac campus five or ten years away.

It is a privilege and I enjoy the work. It is a heavy load, however, though much is to be gained. As in any job the more you put into it the more you get out of it.

Bar-Disco is your bar; students planned, organized, built, have run and are running it so it is only right that they should be interested in it. We will never all agree on an issue but Students Council discussed the bar at length and made a decision. As in any organization or company, policies and decisions are made whenever the concerned body feels there is a need.

A Bar-Disco committee is presently being set up composed of 6 members. These members, including the chairman, will be bar staff and to represent the student body, two Mac students. The C.C. Manager is the 6th member.

I believe half of a committee to be made up of employees certainly offers a healthy opportunity for staff input. As in any operation there are many viewpoints and I think this committee provides opportunity for input from all concerned.

By now I have convinced no one of anything, but what I do want to do is comment on some of the areas of interest or lack of it on campus. It is good to see many people interested in the bar, at least I think they are interested in the bar. Unfortunately this interest level is not achieved in other student activities.

We are very fortunate to have a keen U-1 class, and they are doing the bulk of the work to organize Winter Carnival, and a few AUS students are working to get a course evaluation program off the ground while sacrificing their own courses, and the list goes on and on . . . The reply: "I didn't know all these things were going on, nobody told me."

Where were you at your class meeting when 15% attended or the Carnival meeting when 15 of 800 students showed, or at AUS when 10 of 450 attended?

This place is more than a bar, books and classes. Student life is there for the taking. If it is not taken, it will not be there to take, and I sincerely hope neither of us is a student if and when that day comes.

Yours sincerely,
Bob McClelland,
Internal Vice President,
Students Council.

Dear Mr. H.B.

In response to your letter in the November 24th issue of "The Harvest", I would first like to say that if I wasn't concerned about the student body I wouldn't have accepted the responsibility of Centennial Centre Chairman in the first place. Obviously this is more than you have shown. Furthermore, as elected CC chairman and a member on Council, it is my responsibility to see to the efficient operation of the CC. If this involved delegating more authority to the CC Committee, then it is my responsibility to do so.

As far as the members of the CC Committee are concerned, they are just as representative of the student body as the elected members of Council. The only difference is that they were elected from applications by Council instead of by the student body. If they were not concerned about the efficient operation of the CC they wouldn't have applied to sit on the CC Committee.

I would also like to point out that the President of Student's Council, the CC Manager, a Faculty Advisor, and the Bar-Disco Committee Chairman all sit on the CC Committee in addition to the five students representing the student body. This is not some hick committee set up to

MAC/JAC

Big Brother/Little Brother

It is somewhat frustrating for a new member on Mac campus to be continually reminded of the senseless bickering of sensible and mature students of Mac campus. Who are these JAC students on whom such discrimination is being wrought? Are they our brothers and sisters? Or are they not? Have we forgotten so quickly, due to a little power and prestige, that only yesterday young faces seen now at MAC were formerly our own faces? Have we so quickly forgotten our adolescent days? Do you really mean that since "maturing", we no longer sit down in groups, reminiscing and boasting, nostalgia, of doing the same things that we now accuse our younger brothers and sisters, our sons and daughters, of doing? But then, our parents, bigger brothers and sisters did not understand us either, did they? And yet the spoiled brats of yesteryear are the policy makes of today, wreaking the same miserable punishment out against, "ourselves".

Times have changed! That is the new cry, isn't it? Or have they? Yes, They have! We have reached the stage that we will sell our brothers and sisters "for a few dollars more". We don't invite friends to dinner anymore; we don't have a guest in our home anymore; we don't buy someone a drink anymore; unless the friend or guest will, and more important, can return the 'favour'.

It is possible and necessary to have a good and lasting MAC/JAC relationship by sitting and negotiating under an umbrella of cooperation rather than vindictiveness. After all, whether we like it or not, we are our brother's keepers.

Meetings Nov. 12 and 26

1. QLB August legislation has placed the future of the CC in jeopardy. Council has contacted Mr. O'Reilly, an estates lawyer, and is in close contact with Dr. Blackwood and McGill regarding this problem. Our major source of income for the CC will be lost unless a solution is found rapidly. Currently we are operating in violation of the August legislation — a situation which will not be allowed to continue according to Quebec Officials.

2. JAC lockers are to be relocated and JAC buses removed from back of CC.

3. K. O'Neil is the liaison member of the Mac/McGill Post Grad Society.

4. The rink hours given Mac for games are being reviewed.

5. Bar-Disco staff representatives proposed initiation of a Bar-Disco Staff Association.

6. Bar-Disco Committee applications open — see Bob McClelland, Internal V.P.

7. CCC terms of reference approved.

8. Council Executive granted immediate collective veto power in any business concerning student affairs.

9. Clan budget approved.

10. Sub-committee set up to study space requirements in the CC and space available for rent for desirable student services.

11. Harvest budget approved.

12. Mac jackets available — inquire at CC desk.

13. Course evaluation is being looked after by AUS and FSUS representatives. New cards for Fall term will be handed out by professors.

14. Dr. Blackwood advised Council that students will have an opportunity to view the future plans for Macdonald campus.

15. Help is needed for Winter Carnival.

16. Bob and Rick attended a meeting to draw up the constitution of the Judicial Committee.

17. U1 was granted a loan to be paid back by February 15th, 1976 to cover debts incurred by the Mystral Concert.

18. U1 and U2 will be asked to submit financial records to council for safe keeping.

19. McGill Counselling Services are coming!

20. Karen & Medi submitted a report of the conference they attended in Vancouver this summer. They were funded by Dr. Blackwood, AUS and Student's Council.

21. David Bird is the new postgrad athletic representative.

22. Environmental Studies at McGill have been dissolved.

23. Study Hall is open in the CC and coffee will be made available during the Christmas exams.

24. Student Council budget approved.

25. Proceeds of Orientation Beer Bash are to be given to U2.

You don't have to make the cakes the conventional way. Shaped pans will give good results too, as long as they aren't too shallow. I really don't know how long to cook them in cupcake molds though; give it the old toothpick. It should be about 45 minutes.

"The Most Versatile Man of Campus Award" is presented this week to P.P. His performance with wood was astonishing, but what's it like with something responsive?

J.C.: Did R.M. have to take you all the way to To. to show you the tower?

Hey B. "Teddybear" M., was that you in the corner during B.H. 371 bash? Talk about southern comfort . . .

D.B. of Hort.: Do you always walk around in your "bare-skin"?

A.J.: Will your dreams become a reality at Christmas?

Engineers are a bunch of pussycats! When are they going to quit purring and come out of their baskets and start roaring?

G.V.: What's that aftershave you're wearing?

I hear Stuart was wandering in the Swamps a while ago - hope you didn't get sick.

Tinkerbell: Fly on over any old time!
"B. & B. 'appraisal associates'".

J.S.: How's the 'John' lately?

The Grub: Why did you take out your frustrations of the grey cup results on V.T.'s head?

V.T.: We've noticed your sparseness . . .

The hot Bluebeard: Do you practice karate because you're afraid you will drive them wild?

B.B.: What's in the States that's not up here?

Predictions held true: D.C. lost 4 more pounds at the end of November. What amounts of punishment can the man endure before he's reduced to functioning on his (2) basic instincts?!

L.N.: Are you jealous because you aren't losing weight?

B.W.: Why are you gaining weight?

FLASH: U1 hockey team is a bunch of hackers and hot-dogs, especially numbers . . .

G. McL.: If she shouldn't "take it so hard" who should?

Old "Mad-Dog" is having the blues again. I guess his being pursued has something to do with it.

V.M.: See G.B. for free "Dear Abby" advice at U111 hockey games.

B.C.: You've got to start outshining your 'sidekick' - he steals the show! (He is the show . . .)

ATTENTION: A Dip I Casa Nova is on the prowl wearing a red and black lumberjack coat with an orange vest. Usually seen with a tiny band-aid on his face. Lookout everybody.

K.K.: Does Rudi really hit the right spots?

T.M. is worth waiting for.

Hey Big Blond Bob from Brittain: things must be getting hot and heavy over at S.H. Having trouble getting your papers done?

E. O'R.: Too bad you have to change your ways after Xmas.

Congratulations to D.M. - He's the biggest scorer on campus.

D. Bb.: All talk - no action!

P.L. of L.H.: Is your mind together yet?

The "Taters" in Apt. 27 are looking peaked lately. They must of got whipped.

J.S.: Are you turning Ukranian? Adminton does it to you every time!

D.B.: Have you got your buns yet?

To all "Rock" Dealers: Your services are required for the Christmas rush at Mac. All prospectives please sign up at the C.C. desk.

D. McK.: Water fights are meant to get your clothes wet.

Mort: Are you keeping your diaper clean? Only one more month to go.

M.H.: Do you really feed your Cougar steak for breakfast?

I hear Woodchuck, Morgan Horse, Jackass, and Jimmy Squirrel all get it on with Dario cookies!!

Recent airing of the new movie "How to build a fire in 12 easy steps" starring V.T. was a glowing success and kindled enthusiasm to film a sequel.

G. McD.: Is it true that you can resist any woman - except a woman barber?

Feverish activity, three for all - the "Senneville Studs" are having a good ball.

V.M.: Is it true about things that go "Bang" in the night?

L.N.: What has a surprise got to do with building up?

T.K.: How much have you built up?

B. McC.: You're lucky only your little toe went out of joint.

D.B. of Hoat.: What's this about not being hot - we have reports to the contrary . . .

Dave must have put the "question" to L.L. She's practicing to be the perfect "mother Dip".

C.M.: I hope that all you lost in To. was your ribbon.

K.K.: Mail strikes are a blessing in disguise - any excuse to phone!

Position Open: Qualified instructors wanted to train 95 Food Science novices in the art of Come and Touch.

Job Wanted: Experienced Ag. Eng. man willing to teach anyone in the fundamentals of Touch and Come.

D.B.: Hockey is playing with a puck, not a stone.

R.N.B.: What do swimming trunks do for you that underwear don't?

Bar Disco Staff: Want, Want, Want . . .

L.D.: What do you see in the bottom of green pails?

E. Mac: Are your feet 'sterile'?

S.B.: This is to inform you that you have lost the distinction of being the only female on campus to smoke cigars - but you still do it with the most class.

J.S.: Mite-n't you give it another chance?

D.B. (of Rugby): Aren't you hot enough to light the fire?

D. McK.: I didn't know you were that type of guy!

Food Science: Did your recent study find out what everybody is lacking?

D.C.: How many miles do you get to the pound?

I hear "The Rabbit Chaser" is in charge of accommodations for the Woodsmen Competition. The red light will be burning that weekend.

Last chance to join Bif Barf's Fan Club. Send membership application to L.H. P.O. #294.

B. McC.: God knows Everything!!

Name changes are the 'in' thing this year, but Bill, what have you got planned for encores?

D.B.: S.B. may smoke cigars, but I intend to smoke pipe. Hurry and get cleaned up.

Everyday at noonhour I see throngs of guys hustling over to 379 L.H. I wonder what they're eating for lunch . . .

H.H.: What's with all those weekends?

M.M.: Size isn't what counts.

"Hustler of the Week Award" goes to B.W. of L.H. for the second time in a row. His secret - must be Newfie Charm.

J.D.: Are you the sequel to the Catwoman?

only study issues and place recommendations before a whole body for decision. This is a committee responsible for the efficient operation of the CC and in order to do this it must be empowered to implement its own decisions which affect the day-to-day operation of the CC. Besides, all CC Committee decisions are subject to veto by our elected Council representatives should the need arise.

It should also be pointed out that without full authority to effectively run the CC, the CC Committee is faced with the operational consequences of all policies and decisions passed by Council concerning the CC. At times this has resulted in unnecessary problems for the CC Committee. This system has been found to be totally unsatisfactory in the past as well and is probably the reason for your questionable confidence of past leadership on the CC.

Finally, I would like to add that the CC Committee Terms of Reference are determined by Council and they have seen fit to delegate full authority to the CC Committee for the operation of the CC. If this does not satisfy you, then I strongly suggest that you show some responsibility and run for a position on the Students' Council next election.
